Plot Overview and Main Characters

The Narrative Arc

House of God follows the story of a young medical intern named Roy Basch as he begins his residency at the fictional Beth Israel Hospital. Throughout the novel, readers witness his transformation from an idealistic newcomer into a seasoned, often disillusioned, doctor. The narrative is structured around the interns' experiences during their grueling year of training, highlighting their struggles with workload, mortality, and their own personal limits.

These characters collectively portray the diverse reactions and coping mechanisms of medical trainees facing relentless stress.

Major Themes in House of God

The "GOMER" Phenomenon

One of the most memorable aspects of the novel is its portrayal of the "GOMER" (Get Out of My Ear), a slang term used by interns to refer to terminally ill or dying patients who are often kept alive by aggressive treatments. Shem critically examines:

- The futility of certain medical interventions
- The ethical dilemmas of prolonging life at all costs
- The emotional toll on medical staff

This theme challenges readers to consider the boundaries of medicine and the importance of compassionate, patient-centered care.

The "House of God" Philosophy

- "The patient is the one with the disease, not the one with the symptoms."
- "The more pain you inflict, the more you learn."
- "Suck out all the marrow, and leave the bone."

While these guidelines are often humorous, they reflect the harsh reality and survival tactics employed by interns in high-pressure environments.

Resilience and Camaraderie

Despite the grim themes, the novel emphasizes the importance of solidarity among interns. Shared humor, mutual support, and resilience are depicted as vital tools for coping with the intense demands of residency.

Ethical and Moral Dilemmas
